We hope everyone had a wonderful holiday season, and many thanks to those who helped keep the gallery open and festive. We are ready to hit the ground running for the New Year, which we look forward to with anticipation and lots of ideas for projects and activities. Remember that dues for 2024 are payable by the end of January!

BOARD MEETING Monday, January 8, 10 a.m. We will welcome the new Officers and Board members as they assume their duties, and all are urged to attend this important first meeting when we begin to plan the year. (We will meet in the front gallery because the polymer clay group has the studio from 9-12 every second Monday.)

MEMBERSHIP MEETING Monday, January 8, 1 p.m. We have several projects in the planning stages for the New Year, so please come and let us have your ideas and tell us what you would like to do. There are classes already scheduled and others on the horizon, the eclipse and its accompanying activities will be upon us before we know it, and it looks like the gallery will enjoy a busy year. We need your ideas and participation, though, so we look forward to seeing you!

POLYMER CLAY PLAYDAY Monday, January 8, 9-12. Marlene sent the group an email showing the project for the January gathering, and it looks like it will be really fun and creative (as always)! It's a little dish with tiny succulent plants—just adorable! She asks that you let her know whether you will be attending so she will plan accordingly.

FANCY BIRD FEEDERS workshop Thursday, January 25, 1-2 p.m. Charisse Gostevskyh will provide all the supplies needed to make beautiful bird feeders from vintage teacups and saucers. The picture on the flyer looks really pretty; you don't want to miss this fun class. $40 covers everything you will need. Call or come by the gallery to sign up.

WATERCOLOR JOURNALING class Tuesday, January 30, 1-3 p.m. Teri Hicks will provide a small notebook and travel-size watercolor set to help you get started on journaling with paint! $25 fee covers the supplies and the class. Maximum class size is 10, so be sure to reserve your spot!
